

Reminders for Applicants to the Simultaneous Award of the Bachelor's and Master's Degrees

(Before completing this application, please review the full regulations governing the Simultaneous Award, available via Section J, "Simultaneous Award of the Bachelor's and Master's Degrees," Yale College Programs of Study. The following reminders have been drawn from these regulations.)

Eligibility. To be considered for admission, applicants must have earned by the end of their fifth term at least two-thirds A or A- grades in all of their course credits and in all of the course credits directly relating to their major. Applicants should contact their DUS about any additional eligibility requirements or exceptions.

Taking Graduate Courses Prior to Admission to the Program. Program applicants who enroll in a course that carries both an undergraduate and a graduate number may request the instructor's permission to complete the graduate-level requirements of the course and petition to have it converted to the graduate number on the academic record if they are subsequently admitted to the program.

Application. Students must apply through their DUS no later than the last day of classes in their fifth term of enrollment in Yale College. The proposal should provide evidence of eligibility, reasons for pursuing the simultaneous degree, and plans for completing the program requirements.

Program requirements. Students are expected to complete the requirements of the undergraduate major in addition to eight or more courses in the Graduate School. Graduate work must not be entirely concentrated in the final two terms; students in the program must take at least six term courses outside the department during their last four terms at Yale and at least two undergraduate courses during their last two terms. Contact the department for any additional requirements, including possible restrictions on the number of applicable overlapping undergraduate/graduate courses. Students must complete eight term course credits in the Graduate School with grades of A in at least two term courses (or in one year course) and with a B average in the remaining ones.
