FIELD TRIPS

Instructors occasionally choose to include field trips as part of a course. Academic field trips can be an important and enjoyable element of education. They are, by definition, university-sponsored events, and so they must follow the set of guidelines governing field trips established by Yale College. These guidelines contain policies for both instructors and students. Instructors planning academic field trips should also contact Joel Silverman (joel.silverman@yale.edu).