Yale University is committed to maintaining and strengthening an educational, employment, and living environment founded on civility and mutual respect. Sexual misconduct is antithetical to the standards and ideals of our community, and it is a violation of Yale policy and the disciplinary regulations of Yale College and the graduate and professional schools.

Sexual misconduct incorporates a range of behaviors including sexual assault, sexual harassment, intimate partner violence, stalking, voyeurism, and any other conduct of a sexual nature that is nonconsensual, or has the purpose or effect of threatening, intimidating, or coercing a person. Sexual activity requires affirmative consent, which is defined as positive, unambiguous, and voluntary agreement to engage in specific sexual activity throughout a sexual encounter. Consent cannot be inferred from the absence of a “no;” a clear “yes,” verbal or otherwise, is necessary. Consent to some sexual acts does not constitute consent to others, nor does past consent to a given act constitute present or future consent. Violations of Yale’s Policy on Teacher-Student Consensual Relations also constitute sexual misconduct. See the full version of Yale’s Sexual Misconduct Policies and Related Definitions.

Yale aims to eradicate sexual misconduct through education, training, clear policies, and serious consequences for violations of these policies. In addition to being subject to University disciplinary action, many forms of sexual misconduct are prohibited by Connecticut and federal law and may lead to civil liability or criminal prosecution. Yale provides a range of services, resources, and mechanisms for victims of sexual misconduct. The options for undergraduate, graduate, and professional school students, faculty, and staff are described at http://smr.yale.edu.

TITLE IX COORDINATORS
http://provost.yale.edu/title-ix

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 protects people from sex discrimination in educational programs and activities at institutions that receive federal funding. Sex discrimination includes sexual harassment, sexual assault, and other forms of misconduct. The University is committed to providing an environment free from discrimination on the basis of sex.

Title IX coordinators are senior administrators and faculty members throughout the university who:

- Meet with students, faculty, and staff in order to answer questions related to issues of discrimination on the basis of sex or gender or sexual misconduct
- Inform Yale community members about all of their options for resolving complaints
- Coordinate resources, accommodations, remedies, and interim measures
- Investigate complaints to the degree possible and consistent with the complainant’s wishes
- Ensure that the university responds effectively to each complaint
- Track and monitor incidents, identify patterns and systemic issues, and take steps to address them

University Title IX Coordinator and Deputy Provost for Health Affairs and Academic Integrity, Stephanie Spangler, has campus-wide responsibility for all policies, processes, and programs that address and prevent discrimination on the basis of sex or gender, including sexual misconduct. In addition to Dr. Spangler, the Director of Academic Integrity Programs in the Office of the Provost serves as the Senior Deputy Title IX Coordinator and helps to oversee the University’s Title IX programs. The Director of the Office for Equal Opportunity Programs, serves as the Senior Deputy Title IX Coordinator for faculty and staff. Yale College, the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, and each of the professional schools have designated deputy Title IX coordinators. The deputy Title IX coordinators report to Dr. Spangler.

Title IX coordinators can be contacted at any time by email or phone. All coordinators are available to the entire Yale community. Coordinators provide information, track and resolve complaints, and address issues relating to gender-based discrimination and sexual misconduct within their respective schools. Coordinators are knowledgeable about, and will provide information on, all options for complaint resolution, and can initiate institutional action when necessary. Discussions with a Title IX coordinator will be treated confidentially; at times, the coordinator may need to consult with other administrators or take action in the interest of safety. Coordinators also work closely with the SHARE Center, the University-Wide Committee on Sexual Misconduct, and the Yale Police Department.
