

MASTER'S PROGRAM FINANCIAL AID

POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

In general, students must apply for financial aid in order to be considered for a YSE scholarship. Since financial aid awards are based primarily on financial need, information about student finances that is not available in the application for admission is required. YSE is need-blind. Therefore, applying for financial aid and having financial need in no way affect the decision to offer admission.

The deadline for prospective students to apply for need-based financial aid is February 1. If that deadline is missed, the student will not be considered for need-based financial aid. This can be a costly oversight, as what is received in the second year is generally the same as what is received in the first year. The deadline for current students to apply for financial aid renewal is March 31.

If a student is a U.S. citizen or permanent resident, three forms must be submitted, the YSE Financial Aid Application, the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), and the CSS Profile. If a student is an international student, two forms must be submitted, the YSE Financial Aid Application and the CSS Profile. Several scholarships may have a separate component that must be completed within the admissions application and accompany the financial data (i.e., Three Cairns Climate Program for the Global South, Bekenstein Climate Leaders Program). Students must reapply for financial aid for the second year, although the amount of the YSE scholarship in most cases will remain the same as in the first year.

A limited number of merit-based scholarships are available, for which a separate financial aid application may be required (i.e., Bekenstein Climate Leaders Program). Examples include merit awards to the top applicants to the Master of Environmental Science and Master of Forest Science programs, Bekenstein Climate Leaders Program, and the Paul D. Coverdell Fellowships for qualifying Returned Peace Corps Volunteers.

YSE scholarships, work study, and federal loans (Direct Stafford and Grad PLUS) are available to U.S. citizens and permanent residents. YSE scholarships, work study, and Yale International Loans are available to international students.

The primary factor in determining the amount of a need-based YSE scholarship is financial need as determined by the review of the student's (and spouse's, if applicable) income and assets and any third-party funding that the student expects to receive. Merit is a secondary factor.

Students must report any direct financial support that they expect to receive from third-party sources, including but not limited to outside scholarship and employer reimbursement. Student must also report any direct financial support that they expect to receive from their parents, such as money for tuition or rent.

Approximately three-quarters of YSE students receive scholarships in any given year from an annual scholarship budget in excess of $8 million.

Satisfactory Academic Progress

To be eligible for financial aid, a student must be making Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) in the degree program. Financial aid includes all federal student aid funds (Federal Direct Stafford Loan, Federal Direct Grad PLUS Loan, and/or Federal Work Study) as well as institutional funds. For a complete explanation of the YSE SAP policy, please see the YSE Student Handbook, chapter Rules & Regulations, section Academic Regulations and Policies.

Less Than Half-Time Enrollment, Including Continuous Registration

Students enrolled less than half-time (i.e., for less than 6 credits in a term) and students who are not actively working toward a degree, such as those in continuous registration status, are not eligible for federal or institutional financial aid. Furthermore, financial aid awards are based on an assumption of full-time enrollment and will be revised proportionately should a student choose to enroll less than full-time. Students considering enrolling less than full-time should first consult with the registrar and the associate director of financial aid to understand the academic and financial consequences, respectively, of that decision.

Joint-Degree Students

In most joint-degree programs, students split their time between the two joint schools, spending one and one-half years at each school for a total program length of three years.

Each school at Yale is financially independent, which means that the financial aid award a student receives at one school is not transferable to the joint school. The joint-degree student should follow the financial aid application procedures of the school to which the student will be paying tuition. If the student is paying tuition at YSE, the student should apply for financial aid through YSE. If the student is paying tuition at the joint school, the student should apply for financial aid through that school.

If the joint-degree student is applying for admission to two schools simultaneously, the student should apply for financial aid at both schools, also simultaneously.

Fifth-Year Students

During their senior year at Yale College, students may apply for admission to the YSE Five-Year Program. These students sometimes defer their enrollment in the YSE master's program for a year of outside volunteer work or employment. To be considered for financial aid for their enrollment at YSE, these students must submit their financial aid application materials by the February 1 deadline prior to their matriculation into the program. This could mean that the student submits the financial aid application materials during the student's deferral or "gap" year. It is the student's responsibility to submit all documents by the February 1 deadline.

Scholarships

Most of the school's scholarship budget is funded by private donors. Scholarship recipients are automatically considered for all named scholarships. The named scholarships listed below are not in addition to any generic scholarship a student receives in the financial aid award notification but may be matched to a scholarship recipient once the student matriculates.

There is no credit check required. The standard repayment term is ten years. A six-month grace period immediately follows separation from school or otherwise dropping below half-time enrollment status, at which time repayment is required. The loan is requested by completing and returning a loan request form available on the school's financial aid webpage, <https://environment.yale.edu/admissions/masters/funding-your-degree/student-loans>.

After initial processing, the loan will be assigned to a servicer contracted with the U.S. Department of Education, such as FedLoan, Great Lakes, Navient, or Nelnet.

Federal Direct Grad PLUS Loan (U.S. citizens and permanent residents only) In general, the maximum annual loan amount is the cost of attendance less all other resources. For interest rates and origination fees, visit www.studentaid.gov. A credit check is required. Repayment terms are similar to Federal Direct Stafford Loans. International Students – Certification of Finances for Visa

International students must certify full funding for their entire two-year course of study before visa documents can be issued. Instructions and forms are mailed after an admitted student accepts the offer of admission (deadline May 15). More information is available from Yale's Office of International Students and Scholars website, <https://oiss.yale.edu>.

Veterans

Eligible students are strongly encouraged to seek specific information about Veterans Administration (VA) benefits from their local Veterans Administration office by calling 800.827.1000 or visiting <https://benefits.va.gov/gibill>. The school also participates in the Yellow Ribbon Program, which covers the remaining tuition for qualifying Post-9/11 GI Bill students. The Director of Academic Affairs, in partnership with the associate director of financial aid, coordinates the administration of Veterans Administration benefits at YSE.

Institutional policy confirming compliance with 38 USC 3679

The Yale School of the Environment (YSE) permits any covered individual to attend or participate in the course of education during the period beginning on the date on which the individual provides to YSE a certificate of eligibility for entitlement to educational assistance under chapter 31 or 33 (a “certificate of eligibility” can also include a “Statement of Benefits” obtained from the Department of Veterans Affairs’ website or a VAF 28-1905 form for chapter 31 authorization purposes) and ending on the earlier of the following dates:

1. The date on which payment from VA is made to YSE.
2. Ninety days after the date that YSE certified tuition and fees following the receipt of the certificate of eligibility.

YSE will not impose any penalty, including the assessment of late fees, the denial of access to classes, libraries, or other institutional facilities, or the requirement that a covered individual borrow additional funds, on any covered individual because of the individual’s inability to meet his or her financial obligations to YSE due to the delayed disbursement funding from VA under chapter 31 or 33. NOTE: A covered individual is any individual who is entitled to educational assistance under chapter 31, Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment, or chapter 33, Post-9/11 GI Bill benefits.
