The Yale College Dean's Office (YCDO) is the administrative center of Yale College.

The YCDO is charged by the corporation to administer the undergraduate academic course of study and a variety of special educational programs such as Directed Studies, the Writing Center, the Special Divisional Majors, the Academic Mentorship Program, Yale College Tutoring, and the Mathematics and Science Tutoring Program.

The office is responsible for determining policies concerning student life, discipline, and extracurricular activities. It is also in charge of registering and overseeing all undergraduate organizations, and supervising the four cultural centers. The Dean's Office supervises the deans of the fourteen colleges and works in close collaboration with college heads. Finally, the Yale College Executive Committee is administered from within the Dean's Office.
