COMPUTING FACILITIES FOR THE YALE COMMUNITY

Yale provides a number of computing facilities on campus. Computers and printers are available for general use by the Yale community at Dunham Laboratory, 17 Hillhouse, and several other campus locations. In addition, computer rooms are provided in many of the residential colleges. ITS Support (cluster.support@yale.edu) provides support for cluster machines and can provide information about installed and available software.

The Computer Science and Engineering departments operate extensive computer facilities for use by their students and faculty, and several other departments have specialized research and teaching facilities. Instructors are invited to consult with these departments.