INTERNATIONAL EXPERIENCE

Experience abroad is an invaluable complement to academic training. Such experience may include course work at foreign universities, intensive language training, directed research, independent projects, internships, laboratory work, and volunteer service. Yale College provides a variety of international opportunities during term time, summers, and post-graduation, as well as a large and growing number of fellowships to support students abroad, all of which augment students’ education in a globalizing world. Students can visit the Center for International and Professional Experience (http://cipe.yalecollege.yale.edu) to explore options for study abroad, search for international internships and careers, and seek funding for study, research, and work experiences off campus. Summer courses abroad are offered by Yale Summer Session (http://summer.yale.edu). Students can also apply to receive transfer credit from eligible outside summer study abroad programs. To learn more, visit the Study Abroad Website (http://studyabroad.yale.edu). Students receiving financial aid may be eligible for summer funding through the International Summer Award (ISA) program (http://funding.yale.edu/types-funding/international-summer-award-isa).

YEAR OR TERM ABROAD

In recognition of the special value of formal study abroad, Yale College allows juniors and second-term sophomores to earn a full year or term of credit toward the bachelor’s degree through the Year or Term Abroad program. Participation in the program provides students the opportunity to approach academic study through a different cultural perspective. Students apply to the Yale College Committee on the Year or Term Abroad for approval of a program of study abroad. The pertinent application procedures and regulations are listed under Special Arrangements (http://catalog.yale.edu/ycps/academic-regulations/special-arrangements) in the Academic Regulations. Additional information is available from the Study Abroad Office (http://studyabroad.yale.edu) or by e-mail to yaleinlondon@yale.edu.

YALE-IN-LONDON

The Yale-in-London program offers spring-term courses in British culture and society at the Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art, located in central London. The program is open to undergraduates, carries full Yale course credit, and counts as a term of enrollment. Instruction is designed to take advantage of the cultural resources of London and its environs, with regular field trips (including overnight stays) to museums, historic houses, and other sites of interest. Accommodations are provided for students in shared apartments. Further information is available on the program’s website (http://britishart.yale.edu/education/yale-college-students/yale-in-london), or from the Yale-in-London office at the Yale Center for British Art, or by e-mail to yaleinlondon@yale.edu.

YALE-IN-LONDON SUMMER PROGRAM

Yale-in-London offers two overlapping summer sessions at the Paul Mellon Centre for Studies in British Art, each lasting six weeks. There are two courses in each session, with topics in history, history of art, architecture, literature, and drama. The courses are open to undergraduates and carry full Yale course credit, although enrollment in Yale-in-London summer session does not count as a term of enrollment in Yale College. Overnight field trips may be included. Accommodations are provided. Course descriptions and further information are available on the program’s website (http://britishart.yale.edu/education/yale-college-students/yale-in-london), or from the Yale-in-London office at the Yale Center for British Art, or by e-mail to yaleinlondon@yale.edu.

THE MACMILLAN CENTER

The Whitney and Betty MacMillan Center for International and Area Studies at Yale is the University’s focal point for promoting teaching and research on all aspects of international affairs, societies, and cultures around the world. It brings together scholars from relevant schools and departments to provide comparative and problem-oriented teaching and research on regional, international, and global issues. The MacMillan Center oversees six undergraduate majors: African Studies, East Asian Studies, Latin American Studies, Modern Middle East Studies, Russian and East European Studies, and South Asian Studies. Language training is integral to each of the majors.

Beyond these degree programs, the MacMillan Center has more than twenty interdisciplinary faculty councils, centers, committees, initiatives, and programs, such as the Program on European Studies; Genocide Studies Program; Political Violence FieldLab; Program on Refugees, Forced Displacement, and Humanitarian Responses; and the Russian Studies Project. These provide opportunities for scholarly research and intellectual innovation and encourage faculty and student interchange for undergraduates. Additionally, the MacMillan Center invites visiting scholars to Yale each year from a range of disciplines and countries; awards financial support to Yale students studying languages or traveling abroad to do independent research; and sponsors lectures, conferences, workshops, symposia, films, and art events. Further information about the MacMillan Center is available on the Center’s Website (http://www.yale.edu/macmillan).

JACKSON INSTITUTE FOR GLOBAL AFFAIRS

The Jackson Institute’s mission is to inspire and prepare Yale students for global citizenship and service. The Institute administers the undergraduate major in Global Affairs, with tracks in international development and international security. In addition, the Institute offers a number of courses that are open to students in Yale College, including GLBL 101, Gateway to Global Affairs.
Each year the Jackson Institute hosts Senior Fellows, leading practitioners and experts in global affairs who teach courses, give public lectures, and are available to consult with students on their career plans. The Jackson Institute’s career services office serves as a resource for Yale College students contemplating careers in public service and other areas of global affairs. For further information, consult the Institute’s Website (http://jackson.yale.edu).
